The Identity of the Sidekicks Piggy and Roger: The good and the bad.

Are you a sidekick or the main character? Lord of the Flies by William Golding made two side characters Piggy & Roger. Nevertheless they don't get justified as much as they could in this book. Piggy and Roger have very important parts, however they have to be the sidekicks of the story. People don't realize that the sidekicks put together the story. What story have you heard that doesn't have a sidekick that does a lot of the work but the main character gets all of the credit.

Piggy and Roger are good and the bad Piggy is the good one so his identity is going to be different from Roger. Piggy is smart so he looks for the best way to do things but he gets made fun of so that can take a toll on you. Roger is the bad boy he's a rule breaker that is cruel. Roger see the world as it's his to take. Piggy wants to keep them all alive and survive. Roger is like Jack's henchman to take out the ones that treat him or could lead to power like Piggy so Roger pushed a boulder on to Piggy. Piggy is the most powerful mental. So think if you were Piggy or in some cases you are Piggy or you can think of being Roger. We all have our own traits that makes us our own person you can't act like someone else. You are who you are.

Roger is the sidekick of Jack there the bad side of the group there the ones that no one wants to get in the way of. Roger may not seem that much of a threat because he's on the side but, that's not always the case don't forget he killed Piggy. Roger may not be as scary as Jack but, he is still one to be careful around. Piggy is Ralph's sidekick he may not do what Roger does like do what Ralph says but he stills is on the side."They used to call me 'Piggy'" . "Ralph shrieked with laughter. He jumped up." "Piggy! Piggy!" "Ralph-please!" This is when Ralph gave Piggy his nickname. This made Piggy his sidekick. Piggy was angry at Ralph because of calling him Piggy that is how Piggy got were he did to be brave to stick up for himself. Have you ever been called a name that you don't like but, it sticks with you for a while?

In the end we are either a sidekick or a main character furthermore you can't change that. What you can take from this is that Roger and Piggy are sidekicks and that isn't bad it's their identity. So are a sidekick or a main character or do not know your own identity. The truth is that you can be yourself unless you know your identity. In the world there is good and bad everyone is both you can't be one. You can be bad but in many different way say for being good. So to conclude you can be good or bad, a sidekick or main character, now your identity or don't know your identity what it comes down to is you are who you are don't change it for anyone be yourself.
